The annual dress parade of Jeff Davis throughout the south is now taking place. Between the visit of President Cleveland and the triumphal tour of Mr Davis, the southern democratic heart should be all aglow with enthusiasm.

The result of this year's election in Ohio will be awaited with particular interest. The democrats have been conducting their campaign on the "reduction of the revenue" issue, while Gov Foraker, the republican candidate, is giving a special commence to his snub by Mrs. Cleveland. It is not sure yet that politics are quite lively in the Buckeye state when the issues involved are taken into careful consideration.

It is expected that ... will be made by the democrats at the forthcoming session of ... for the admission of Utah into the union. It is also stated that a fund of $500,000 has been raised to ... in the accomplishment of this object. It is very singular that the eyes of the democrats cannot be turned in the direction of Dakota which now has a population of ... The blindness of the democrats in this matter may be explained by the fact that Dakota has about 60,000 republicans and Jolly, while Utah has about 15,000 democratic majority.

President Cleveland's tour throughout ... elicited forth many loyal ... from the men of the various cities which he visited. Perhaps none were more patriotic than the following from the Charleston News and Courier:

The south in itself is a great country, truly, in its extent as well as in its resources, but it stands alone as a part of ... It is a part of the still greater and better country which stretches from ocean to ocean and from the lakes to the gulf, and the greeting now given to the president of the republic by the citizens of every part shows, as nothing has shown before how thorough and close is the reunion which a short time ago was all but despaired of ever seeing again.

Mr. Grant Allen, the well known English writer, has just recently returned to London after a visit to this country. This was his first visit to the country in eleven years, though he started on his return that the country looked very much the same. In an interview in the Pall Mall Budget Mr Allen presents a very doleful picture of America. He says the country is ... between the intelligent barbarous and tattooing ... civilization, and that the latter ... on which contingency ... common heart demands ... go on!" Mr. Allen continued ... opinion of life by the ... especially that on which franchise would be ... ing. Americans may have some doubts as to Mr Allen's mental equilibrium when his observations on our national life are taken into consideration.

The sugar growers of the south have recently taken the preliminary steps looking toward the organization of a ... Their action has called forth the following comment from the Chicago Tribune:
